MOROCCO

Natural history, mountains and coast

"it met all my expectations"
"accommodation was wonderful"
"we very much enjoyed this holiday"

Morocco 2018

An introduction to the natural history of southern Morocco.

Based for the week at the wonderful Atlas Kasbah in southern Morocco, our holiday is an excellent introduction to the flora, fauna and culture of this fascinating country. The short flight to Agadir, 30 minute transfer to the hotel and relaxed pace of the week make this trip ideal for anyone wanting a taste of Morocco in the company of expert leaders whilst enjoying a high standard of accommodation and easy, comfortable travel.

March is the best time for enjoying many of the flowers, both on the coast and in the mountains. With Mediterranean, Macaronesian and African influences, this area has a fascinating mix of plants including succulent euphorbias, colourful composites, toadflaxes and lavenders and interesting shrubs, including the endemic Argan tree. The birdlife is very interesting and we should see most of the local specialties, including House Bunting, Moussier's Redstart, Black-crowned Tchagra and, with luck, the critically endangered Northern Bald Ibis. We will visit the Sous Massa National Park, where as well as a variety of birds, we will also look for several species of antelope that have been reintroduced here, including Addax, Dorcas Gazelle and the graceful Scimitar-horned Oryx.

Our traditionally and sustainably-built and run hotel, the Atlas Kasbah, has spacious rooms with lovely views of the surrounding countryside, attractive patios and a swimming pool. It is situated within the protected argan forest and we will have time to enjoy this area and grounds of the hotel as well as excursions to the coast, mountains, oases, small villages and the attractive town of Taroudant, a 'mini Marrakech', to experience the local Berber culture.

FOCUS OF INTEREST

This holiday has a very general natural history focus including, birds, plants and other wildlife. Other aspects such as landscape and geology, habitats and ecology are also sometimes included – the topics covered are described in this leaflet. Cultural highlights are included as on most of our holidays.

Morocco is a country of great contrasts. Situated on the edge of Europe, its culture and people are a fascinating mix of European, African and Arab influences. From the Mediterranean coast in the north, through the snow covered Atlas mountains to the arid Saharan desert these diverse habitats make Morocco a top destination for wildlife. This holiday is intended to give an introduction to the plants, culture and wildlife including some of the many birding highlights. Based in the Atlas Kasbah eco-hotel located amongst the Argan forests we will explore an area that is a melting pot of culture, plants and birds. Here the influence of the Mediterranean meets the desert floras of the south creating a unique transition zone. The Argan tree, Argania spinosa is a remnant of a once tropical flora and a key tree in the local economy, exploited for its health-giving oil extracted from the seeds. Our itinerary offers the chance to relax and enjoy the kasbah itself, to see the unique succulent Euphorbias along the coast, to visit the High Atlas and to experience the sights, smells and sounds of the traditional medina of Taroudant.

ITINERARY

Please note that the itinerary may be changed to suit the weather or other practicalities or at the discretion of the leaders.

Day 1 Sat 2nd Flight to Agadir and transfer to the Atlas Kasbah (c30 minutes).

Day 2 Sun 3rd Today we will explore the lanes and hillsides around the hotel and the nearby village. We walk from the hotel through the Argan woodland and discover why the tree is so valuable. The oval fruits sustain the local community and there is an increasing commercial activity selling the sweet rich oil – not too dissimilar to olive oil and widely used in Moroccan cooking. Cultivated and colourful annuals are a feature particularly along field edges and include local specialities such as the orange-flowered Cladanthus arabicus, the pretty blue Volutaria crupinoides and the bugloss Echium horridum. The local birdlife includes local specialities including Common Bulbul, House Bunting and Moussier's Redstart, species we will become familiar with during the week.

Day 3 Mon 4th The Atlantic coast south to the Sahara is well known for its unique communities of succulents Euphorbia officinarum, E. regis-jubae and Kleinia anteuphorbia mixed with shrubs such as Nauplius imbricatus, Searsia pentaphylla and the desert-dwelling Warionia saharae. We will visit Cap Rhir to explore these communities and visit nearby Oued Tamri, where we hope to see the critically endangered Northern Bald Ibis: the total world population is only around 400 birds, with one of the main nesting colonies nearby. We will end the day with a visit to the old Kasbah of Agadir, with its views over the city.

Day 4 Tue 5th Today we visit the attractive town of Taroudant, described as a 'mini Marrakech' but with a character of its own reflecting its rich Berber culture. We will enjoy views from ancient city walls and explore the labyrinthine market - full of spices and herbs and traditional furnishings such as rugs and teapots, House Buntings singing from the buildings and Little Swift overhead. We also visit a women's Argan oil co-operative and visit the oasis at Tioute, the natural habitat of the date palm Phoenix dactylifera.

Day 5 Wed 6th We head south along the coast to the famous Sous Massa National Park. We will meet up with a guide from the National Park, who will tell us more about the important conservation work going on here, especially the reintroduction of a variety of Saharan 'megafauna' to the reserve; antelopes including Dorcas Gazelle, Scimitar-horned Oryx and Addax, and the North African Ostrich, all of which have become almost extinct across much of their range due to overhunting. We will have a guided visit to the area where these animals have been reintroduced, and with luck get to see some of them.

We will finish our day by visiting the Oued Sous, where Greater Flamingos gather on the estuary and feed alongside various waders, gulls and terns.

Day 6 Thu 7th This morning we head south to the Anti Atlas, a low range of very old mountains, which form much of the landscape in the south east of the country. We will travel to Ait Baha and beyond, with stunning views and interesting plants along the way: local endemic specialities include the toadflax Linaria ventricosa and Hesperolaburnum platycarpum. Barbary Ground Squirrel and the large lizard Bibron's Agama may appear along the roadside, while Bonelli's Eagle soar overhead.

Day 7 Fri 8th Today we head in the opposite direction, for the slopes of the High Atlas, making a circuit via the aptly-named Paradise Valley and the Cascades du Immouzer. We will find the Berber Thuya Tetraclinis articulata, an interesting conifer, as well as hillsides covered in Dwarf Fan Palm mixed in with Lavandula dentata and the beautiful shrubby milkwort, Polygala balansae, with contrasting petals of deep purple and yellow. Nearby we will look for the wonderful Fritillaria lusitanica.

Day 8 Sat 9th Our last morning will be spent exploring more of the local area, or just enjoying the relaxing grounds and pool! Transfer to Agadir and flight to UK.

Accommodation, meals and transport

We will stay for the whole week at the wonderful Atlas Kasbah, a new hotel in a traditional design situated amongst the Argan trees in the Arganeraie Biosphere Reserve. The rooms are very spacious, the local culture reflected in the furnishings, and there are lovely views from the rooms and roof terrace. It has an attractive patio, gardens and swimming pool. It has been designed sustainably and is run in an environmentally friendly way. All food is included. We will travel by coach/minibus.

Leaders

Philip Precey is a Director of Wildlife Travel and has led many of our trips in recent years, including eight visits to Morocco since 2013. Laurie Jackson will be familiar to many as an experienced Wildlife Travel leader, having led trips from Transylvania to Chile. This will be her third trip to Morocco. Our leaders will ensure you enjoy all aspects of the wildlife we encounter. Our leaders will be accompanied by Mohammed Belfakir, our local Moroccan guide, together with the assistance of Hassan and Helene, the owners of the Atlas Kasbah.

Weather

In March, the weather is usually sunny but not too hot. If we do get hotter weather we will adapt the itinerary as much as possible. There may be some cooler weather and some rain.

Health and fitness

This is not a strenuous holiday but on some days we will be walking for much of the day, sometimes gently uphill. All excursions are optional and you can choose to spend more time in the pleasant grounds and rooms of the hotel if you wish. The hotel rooms are on the first or second floor and reached by stairs.
