Lesvos 2023 and 2026

Carpets of flowers, olive groves and birding on the beautiful island of Lesvos in the Aegean Sea.

Lesvos is still an undiscovered island for many, despite being the third largest in Greece and close to the Turkish mainland. It is relatively undeveloped and retains its rural culture, interspersed with a few attractive towns and villages. In early-May, the tourist season is just beginning and there is a pleasant, relaxed atmosphere at a time when the flowers and birds are at their best.

The countryside is covered in a colourful display of shrubs, perennials and annuals and the birdsong adds a delightful background to quiet walks through olive groves, meadows and woods or along the coast. Our search for the island's wildlife will take us to some interesting landscapes and historical sites.

The island is justifiably famous for its birdlife, with local breeding specialities including Krüper's Nuthatch, Cinereous Bunting and Masked Shrike. We have timed this holiday to catch the best of the northwards spring migration, as well as the wonderful carpets of spring flowers.

During the week we will be visiting many parts of the island - the rolling hills, pastures and rocky landscapes of the west, and the sweet chestnut and pine woods of the southern mountains. We will explore the rivers, lagoons and reedbeds around Skala Kalloni, and the coastal 'shrublands' full of orchids and birdsong.

Our first hotel is right on the harbour in the scenic town of Molyvos, on the north coast, while our second hotel is within walking distance of the Kalloni wetlands, which contain the prime birding spots on the island. They both provide a great base from which to explore Lesvos.

ITINERARY

Please note that the itinerary may be changed to suit the weather or other practicalities or at the discretion of the leaders.

Day 1 Our flights take us to Mytilene, the main town on Lesbos, from where we transfer to the attractive fishing village of Molyvos (c. 1.5 hours), where we will settle in to our hotel overlooking the fishing harbour, and have some time to explore the narrow lanes of this scenic old town. o/n Molyvos

Day 2 Today we head a little way inland, for a gentle walk through the scenic village of Petri and out to explore the quiet lanes and hillside beyond the village. We will also include a stop at Kavaki to check the coastal scrub, which can attract migrant birds. o/n Molyvos

Day 3 Today we set off west, to explore the dryer habitats and volcanic landscape. We will visit the hillsides below Ypsilou Monastery, famous for a local speciality, Cinereous Bunting, which sings from the oak trees. Isabelline and Eastern Black-eared Wheatears feed on the rocky slopes, with the lovely pink Crepis rubra, Euphorbia rigida and Large Venus's Looking-glass Legousia pentagonia amongst the floral highlights. Near the coastal village of Sigi, we will visit the amazing Petrified Forest Geopark, where Cretzschmar's Buntings sing from among the fossilised trees and Holy Orchids flower at the trackside. o/n Molyvos

Day 4 We bid farewell to Molyvos, and head across to the south of the island, stopping along the way to explore the picturesque chapels and wild olive groves of Limonos Monastery, looking for Sombre Tit amongst the olive trees.

From here we will travel on to Metochi Lake where we will look for Balkan Terrapin and various dragonflies, and take a wander through the olive groves, checking for the lovely Iris orientalis and the Hairy Birthwort Aristolochia hirta, while keeping our eyes out for Masked Shrike that nest in the older trees, and Western Rock Nuthatch and Starred Agamas amongst the rocks. It is then a short journey to Skala Kallonis, our home for the rest of the week. o/n Skala Kallonis

Day 5 Today will be spent exploring the countryside around Skala Kallonis. Walking out from the hotel, we amble through the village lanes and fields, where we will familiarise ourselves with more of the local wild flowers of the pathsides, waterways and marshes.

Eastern Olivaceous Warblers sing from the tamarisk bushes, newly-arrived Bee-eaters hawk over head, Little Bittern and Squacco Heron feed along the river margins, and all sorts of migrant birds might turn up as they head north. o/n Skala Kallonis

Day 6 Today we travel around to the eastern side of the Gulf to visit the pine woodlands at Achladeri, home to Krüper's Nuthatch, another local speciality for which Lesbos is the only European outpost.

From here we head up, through the town of Agiasos and onto the slopes of Mount Olympus. Here we visit the beautiful sweet chestnut woods and limestone hillsides looking for many flowers including Fritillaria pontica and bright splashes of colour in the form of Paeonia macula, Tulipa orphanidea and the beautiful Peacock Anemone Anemone pavonina. We will look for several species of orchids, including Sword-leaved Helleborine Cephalanthera longifolia, Toothed Orchids Neotinea tridentata and Holmboe's Butterfly Orchid Platanthera holmboei. o/n Skala Kallonis

Day 7 We will visit the wetlands around Mesa and the Kalloni Salt Pans today, where Greater Flamingos feed alongside elegant Avocets, Glossy Ibis and Black-winged Stilts, and (depending on the season) a variety of migrating waders and wildfowl, gulls and terns. o/n Skala Kallonis

Day 8 After one last hearty breakfast it is time to bid farewell to Skala Kallonis and make the return journey back to Mytilene and our flights home.

Accommodation and meals, transport and weather

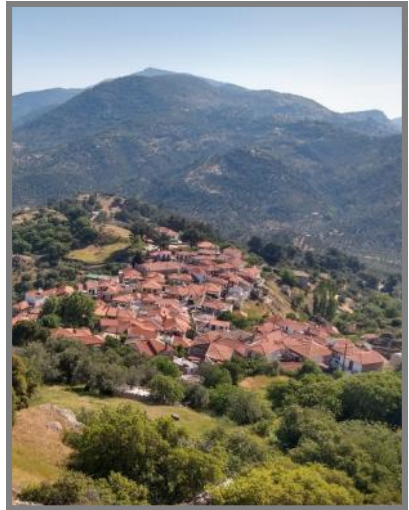

We will be staying for the first three nights at the lovely Sea Horse Hotel, a family-run hotel situated at the quayside of the small fishing harbour of Molyvos. From there, we move to the Pasiphae Hotel: only a few minutes walk from the wetlands of Skala Kallonis (handy for those pre-breakfast bird walks). All rooms are en-suite. Evening meals will be at the hotel and we will take picnic lunches. We will travel by small coach or minibus.

At this time of year the weather is usually sunny but not too hot. There may be some cooler weather and some rain. We will adapt our excursions accordingly.
